

Ethics – You Lie!

June 25, 2013

During this panel discussion we will be using the internet service Polleverywhere.com to receive and tabulate audience responses to multiple-choice questions. You may respond to the questions using a mobile phone to text message a response to the number 22333. Each possible answer to a question will have a unique 6-digit number in parentheses at the end of the answer. See below for these numbers. Choose your answer and text message the 6-digit number to 22333. This is the preferred method of participation.

- Standard text message rates apply
- Participants will not receive unsolicited text messages
- Audience phone numbers will be kept private

For those wishing to participate but preferring not to use text messaging, go to the website www.pollev.com. From here you can enter the unique 6-digit number and submit your response. The specific answer codes link to our poll, so don't worry about seeing anything other than a place to type in the answer code.
